Press Release Body: Christmas is a time for family and friends, but keeping track of their whereabouts from year to year can prove challenging. To tackle this problem, Tracesmart, the UK's number one online people tracing service, has created a new range of credit packages to suit every pocket. The new packages are designed to help people across the UK reunite with their friends and relatives in a quick and cost-effective manner.

The Tracesmart limited edition Christmas credit packages are available in a variety of price options so customers can choose the package that's right for them in relation to the number of people searches they have to make.

"Subscribing to one of our new credit packages this festive season, is without doubt the most simple and effective way of locating people you have lost touch with. Whether you want to get back in contact with one old friend or need to check the addresses of all of those on your Christmas Card list, we have the package for you." comments Adam Smith, Marketing Manager.

Requiring only minimal information on the person they are trying to find, the sophisticated, web-based people tracing system, provided by Tracesmart, allows customers to search multiple datasets to locate the current address of their trace subject. As well as providing the address they desire, where possible, full names, ages and telephone numbers are also appended.

When asked about the special Christmas offers, Tracesmart Technical Director Paul Weathersby commented that:

"By breaking down our credit structure into competitively priced credit packages we feel we are fulfilling our customer's needs more effectively during the holiday season. Rather than having one flat rate, our new structure allows customers to choose the package that suits them. Why pay for credits you aren't going to use?"

The special Christmas credit offer is available at www.tracesmart.co.uk for a limited period only.
