

ApplicationBlocker.com new site for parents

Released on: November 12, 2008, 6:46 am

Press Release Author: Amplusnet

Industry: Internet & Online

Press Release Summary: The increasing number of online predators and the explicit content available on the Internet are the main reasons Amplusnet has developed a parental control dedicated website.

Press Release Body: Together with their first parental control software released, Amplusnet Company is pleased to announce you the launch of a new website, www.ApplicationBlocker.com. As its name says, the site is specially created for the parental control software previously released.

And because there are two special events celebrated, Amplusnet offers their evaluators the chance to purchase the parental control software with a 25% discount. Parents interested in protecting their children on the internet and to assure that they are using the computer for activities appropriate to their age should take the opportunity as the discount is available this month only (November 2008).

Beside the useful information it contains, the new site is easy to navigate and keeps parents up to date with the latest online dangers and provides solutions to avoid them. Planed for parents, the site not only provides information and description about parental control software but also has a section for statistics regarding child abuse and internet human trafficking. More than that, our team has made a special parental control guide to advice parents in facing Internet traps child might fall in.

The reason why our Company decided to dedicate a site for parental control tools and tips is because of the increasing number of online predators, explicit content available on the Internet and because of requests received from parents concerned about their children computer activity. So do you want to assure your child a safe online environment? Than take a look at <http://www.applicationblocker.com> and see how easy is to protect your child.
