International Oddities, an influential player in the tobacco, cigarette, cigar and smoking industries, has created and initiated the legal buds industry. While many of its competitors are still struggling to develop comparable products, the company has dozens of herbal legal buds products on the market. Because of the increasing pressure to make tobacco illegal worldwide, countries such as Amsterdam have utilized the nicotine & tobacco-free herbal smoke options available.

Whether someone purchases from a large smoke shop chain or from the company itself, customers can expect a superior quality smoking experience. Legal buds are purchased with a vacuum-packed can that makes the product remain fresh for longer than usual smoke shop products. With a peek-a-bud window in their "Freshpack Rolling Kit", customers can see the bud they can purchase beforehand. Also, with a retracting rolling tray and built-in rolling papers, the customer can smoke almost immediately and anywhere they want after purchasing. This convenience makes International Oddities popular with savvy style-conscious customers.

International Oddities is also popular with smokers and non-smokers alike. Because of their herbal tobacco alternatives, many individuals are attracted to the products due to the availability to smoke in peace with no legal hassles involved. Many individuals ask, "Do legal buds get you high?" The answer is twofold. While these products will provide a calming and relaxing effect, no marijuana is found in these herbal smokes products so legal marijuana would not be a coined phrase.

While intriguing to smokers of all ages, retail shop markets find these products even more appealing. Because of their high quality impression on new and old customers alike, this keeps business flowing for these shops with repeat customers and sales occurring daily. Many stores name IO's products as the only good herbal smoke products to sell in their stores.

Creating herbal smoke products decades before any other smoke company, International Oddities is a leading retailer for herbal smoke options whether in stores or on the Web. Even Hollywood has caught up with the trend of these smoking products. Interestingly enough, Seth Rogan was seen smoking an International Oddities product on the MTV music awards. While many believed this was a joint, it was an herbal smoke product among IO's collection. Other Hollywood movies or television shows using their products include: CSI, True Blood, Pineapple Express, and Crash with Dennis Hopper and My Name Is Earl along with countless others.

To what do we attribute the appeal of these products? Most often it's the unique "otherworldly" smoking experience and the non-tobacco aspect. This herbal smoke alternative is truly supreme, and enjoyed by smokers and previous nonsmokers worldwide. International Oddities continues to impress the world with its legal buds products and revolutionary mark it has left on the cigar, cigarette and tobacco industries.
