The Auction web site Multi-Sale.com announces their new updated software to let you Auction, Buy, Sell, Trade and even Twitter your items or post wanted ads all for FREE that's right NO listing fees for auctions, wanted ads, and you can even set up free stores. They Only Charge 1% of the final value fees for server costs and upkeep You can finally sell your item and keep all of the profit, instead of paying 10%, 20%, or even 30% of your hard earned money in fees at other auction websites.

At Multi-Sale.com you can import your feedback from other auction venues(wow get rid of high listing fees and keep your established reputation. You can list an item for free and even upload 12 images at no cost. The only time you would encounter fees are if you wish to use specialty upgrade options such as make your auction a "featured auction" or you wish to make your listing title bold or highlighted or maybe upload a video/media of the item. A general auction listing in one category, with up to 12 uploaded images, and more is totally free. Twitter members your new listings use our integrated twitter api and tweets appear right on your Twitter profile immediately and at <http://www.twitter.com/MultiSale> that's twice the tweet power.

Multi-Sale.com will allows users to create a store with up to 1,000 or more items for free. You can upload images, take offers, receive money, and more!

If you are looking to buy a certain item you can post a "Wanted Ad" for free at Multi-Sale.com.

Multi-Sale.com does charge a swap fee for trading items that's right you read that correctly For a 1.00 fee you can trade items with other members that they have listed for sale (of course that's based on the two parties agreeing to the swap)

In appreciation of its members and future members, the next 1,000 users that signup for Multi-Sale.com will receive a $40.00 credit to apply towards special auction features such as, Featured Item, Bold Title, Highlighted Title, Video/Media uploads and more!
