The first carbon neutral beauty company has launched a hair and body care range in the UK. Founded by celebrity colourist Louise Galvin, the range has been hailed as the "future of hair care" by the Saturday Times.

Louise Galvin has over 20 years' experience in the hair colouring industry. Based at her father's famous Daniel Galvin salon in London, she has coloured the hair of countless fashion and beauty icons including Sophie Dahl and Patsy Kensit. Her in depth knowledge of coloured hair has led her to create the revolutionary Louise Galvin Sacred Locks natural hair care line, the first Carbon Neutral beauty company in the UK.

Louise is also passionate about the environment and is committed to creating products that mean you can achieve luscious locks guilt-free. No animals are harmed in the testing of her products and any greenhouse gasses that are produced in their manufacture are off-set by investment in The Carbon Neutral Company. The products use only natural or naturally-derived ingredients such as essential oils, natural extracts and vegetable-derived moisturising and conditioning agents in place of harmful, artificial preservatives. They are also free of sulphates, parabens, silicone, petrochemicals, synthetic fragrances and polymers.

As a busy working mother herself, Louise knows that time can be a luxury. Her luxury range of shampoos, conditioners and hair masques means that you too can have nourished, glossy hair on the go. "Less is more," says Louise. "Maximum impact with minimum effort."

The products have been well received internationally, with everyone from Vogue to celebrities talking about the exciting range. Model Sophie Dahl stated, "The wonderfully natural Sacred Locks Products are like heaven for my hair" after using the range.

Meanwhile, Vogue's Anna-Marie Solowij has said, "There are very few haircare ranges that deliver a luxury experience. With their rich, creamy textures, non-synthetic scents and beautifully decorated bottles, Louise Galvin's Sacred Locks is one of them. That the products make your hair look and feel great too, almost seems like a bonus."

Louise Galvin Sacred Locks is perfect for the confident, feminine woman of today - a woman who cares for her looks as well as the world around her.
