[Malibu, CA] — Sunset Malibu, an exclusive treatment center on the California coast, has long been a transformational force in the field of rehabilitation and recovery. Now, Sunset is announcing its redoubled efforts in the fight against depression-related addiction.

Addiction is always at least in part a psychological disease. The logical corollary, of course, is that addiction treatment must always promote psychological, as well as physical, healing. The best rehab facilities are those which most capably serve the emotional and psychiatric needs of their clients. In the end, there is no more effective path to meaningful and sustainable recovery.

These considerations are at the heart of Sunset Malibu's holistic treatment philosophy.

With its world-class caregivers and elegant accommodations, Sunset Malibu is an unparalleled recovery destination. Whether a client needs Cocaine Rehab or meth rehab, the center has always catered to upscale residents from every corner of the globe. Now Sunset is renewing its commitment to its core values, with the goal of delivering intensive emotional therapy to all individuals who seek it. At Sunset Malibu, the client's most pressing needs always comes first.

"Addiction recovery has to happen from the inside out," said Sunset Malibu owner Richard Taite. "Our clinical psychologists use advanced dual-diagnosis techniques to assess each client's mental health, and how it is affected by his or her substance dependency. We've found that that sort of holistic approach can make a world of difference."

That emphasis on comprehensive care is precisely what sets Sunset apart from its competitors.

Many Los Angeles treatment facilities advertise "whole-person" healing programs. The bad news, though, is that very few of these institutions make good on their promises. Indeed, many of the most high-priced rehab centers in California offer wholly inadequate levels of psychological counseling. For their clients, that inadequacy can lead to disaster.

Taite believes that those kinds of shortcomings are absolutely unforgivable.

"There are no second chances in the rehab process," Taite said. "If you don't get it right the first time, you may never have the opportunity to it again. At Sunset Malibu, we understand the enormity of our obligation to our clients. We believe that our record of success reflects our commitment to getting in right."

Drug and alcohol addiction can ruin lives. Addiction treatment programs can help to solve the problem—but only if they help victims heal in body and mind. Sunset Malibu has a long history of doing just that. Those clients who've been lucky enough to learn the truth firsthand know that no outcome could ever possibly be more meaningful.
