MALIBU, CA - July, 2009- Dual diagnosis treatment strives hard to bring out the patients from addiction, psychological and societal problems. A recent survey has got a shocking revelation which states that about 70% of people with drug and alcohol addictions are suffering with dual diagnosis. There cannot be any answer to the question on which problem occurred first, like, is it chicken or the egg? Professional treatment will find a suitable answer to multiple addictions and address them seriously. Usually patients are encountered with 2 different problems and each has to be identified separately. Treatments have to be for both the disorders but not just one. Dual diagnosis treatment at Sunset Malibu delivers what is promised to the patients and has become a beacon of hope for many.

The psychiatric symptoms and the mental health should be monitored well. Withdrawal of the detoxification may even worsen the conditions for the patients.
