Toronto Canada gets a new modeling agency, Styles Model Management inc. Mike Disney, owner of Styles Model Management was owner of an entertainment agency in Chicago for 18 years. Due to a failing American economy & a desire for a fresh new career, Mike looked to his own home town, Toronto Canada for prospects. Mike has a love of fashion & creative people. He saw many modeling schools that provide crash courses in becoming a model but non that help develop a model's skills over a long time. Modeling agencies are busy booking established & experienced models. Mike saw the need for a modeling agency in Toronto with a friendly, mentoring approach. Modeling is a skill that is developed with lots of practise over time. Thus Mike opened Styles Model Management inc. Free seminars are provided to the models. Models are also introduced to test photographers & stylists to spend much time practising their skills & getting positive feedback from industry professionals. As Mike says " A day not in front of the camera is not a good day."
