

The Vet Is Only as Far as the Keyboard: Pet Owners Save a Trip to the Animal Clinic and Find Pet Meds Online

Released on: October 14, 2009, 4:57 am

Author: Sam Sheppard

Industry: Healthcare

Pet owners find themselves as contented as their cats and dogs with more time in their afternoon as they save a trip to the vet. As more and more consumers turn to the online community to find what they need, pet lovers find all their petmeds needs on the web. No longer do they have to make an extra trip to the pet clinic or pet store to find Frontline, Heartgard, Sentinel or any other pet need because they can get it just as easily on the Internet, never leaving their house or the company of their pet. All pet medications are USDA/EPA approved and exactly what they'd expect to find in a vet's office or pet store.

The Internet creates convenience for everyone, including owners of animals who may find it difficult to work their animal's needs for pet meds in with their busy schedules. Why should pet owners have to travel to meet the health needs of their pets when the Internet provides every pet medication conveniently at the fingertips?

Online pet stores are only as far away as the nearest computer. More and more pet owners realize that the convenience of online pet supply outlets can ease a schedule and provide more time in the day.

The health needs of pets can vary widely and get considerably expensive. With online petmeds, all forms of pet medicine and treatments are available in one location at prices that are considerably lower than a pet shop or vet clinic. The online store saves money by having less real estate and employee expenses to contend with. These savings can then be passed onto the pet owner through lower prices. Not only can pet lovers find everything they need for their pets easier, but the pet meds also tend to be less expensive.

Shipping costs have deterred some potential online shoppers, but many online stores get around this by offering reduced or free shipping. At Petmeds, for example, shipping on all orders over $39 is completely free, adding to the savings with reduced overhead.

Online pet supply shops cover every sort of pet need, from flea and tick treatments to ear and eye medicine to dental to heartworm and skin and coat enhancements. Joint relief can be found in joint and pain supplements as well as specialized orthopedic beds. There are hair ball remedies, treatments for ringworm, special shampoos and skin treatments. Special supplies include stain removers, treats, leashes and toys. There are even special perfumes to overcome that doggie smell.

Saving time by getting everything they need delivered right to their home, pet owners find more room in their schedule to stay at home with the pets they love. That's good news for the busy who don't get as much time as they'd like to with their animals. More time means more love. The pets will be just as thrilled as the owners for a little extra lap time.

About the Author: Sam Sheppard is a long time pet owner and blogger who finds it hard to find time in his schedule to get all his pet meds for the animals he loves. With online petmeds, Sheppard finds more time not only for writing but for quality lap time for all his furry friends as well.

Contact Details: 1441 SW 29th Ave
Pompano Beach, FL. 33069
1-800-PetMeds®
customerservice@1800petmeds.com
www.PetMeds.com

~~~~~

Press release distributed via EPR Network (<http://express-press-release.net/submit-press-release.php>)