(November 20, 2009) Atlanta, GA – Video Copy Services (VCS), an Atlanta-based CD and DVD duplication company, is pleased to announce and celebrate their 25th anniversary. From modest beginnings as a simple VHS and Betamax dub house, VCS has evolved into Atlanta's leading provider of CD, DVD and Blu-ray disc duplication, as well as digital video encoding and transcoding services. VCS is also proud to support the broadest range of high definition video formats in the Southeast.

"Over the years, constantly evolving technology has mandated that we stay on the cutting edge," says VCS President George Helms. "We've become early adopters in order to better serve our client's needs and goals. The best example of this is our extensive HD video capabilities."

About

VCS

Founded in October 1984, VCS began as a local provider of short-run

videotape duplication. After growing and expanding its focus in 1997, VCS has been providing videotape, CD and DVD duplication services to the broadcast industry, film and music industries, religious groups, government agencies and corporate clients. In 1999, they further expanded their range of offerings from traditional duplication and transfers to include digital encoding and transcoding, plus a wide array of other high definition video services. Their latest addition, a new Final Cut Pro system, will add video editing capabilities to the VCS menu. After 25 years, VCS has grown into a true full-service audio and video duplication company, able to service their growing national client base out of two facilities in their hometown of Atlanta, Georgia.

VCS is a recipient of an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau and is proud to have served as Turner Broadcasting's in-house provider of DVD duplication, DVD replication and video transfer services since 2001. Since 1998 VCS has had the privilege to partner with Dekalb Enterprises by employing moderately handicapped people to perform the majority of the company's video, CD and DVD packaging activities under the supervision of a specially trained supervisor.
