The Hospital Group has reported that the most common cosmetic procedure performed on men is a rhinoplasty. More nose jobs were performed on male clients during 2009 than any other procedure.

The fact is everyone can be self-conscious about a particular aspect of their appearance and many people are unhappy with the shape of their nose. It may have a hump, be too long or wide and in addition, there are sometimes problems that contribute to breathing difficulties. A procedure called a Rhinoplasty could help and it is a very popular choice for those that want to improve their most prominent facial feature.

Step by Step

STEP 1

Before surgery, this patient has a slightly hanging nose with a hump and a large tip.

STEP 2

After surgery, a splint is applied to help the bone and cartilage of the nose maintain its new shape

STEP 3

After surgery, the patient has a smaller nose, a straighter bridge, a well-defined nasal tip and an improved angle between the nose and upper lip

A spokesperson for The Hospital Group, said: "Rhinoplasty has always been the most popular male procedure and we can see this to continue to be the case over the years to come. It is a part of their body which they simply cannot hide."

A Rhinoplasty could provide significant enhancement to the appearance of the nose for both men and women. It can alter the balance and proportions of the whole face, giving a dramatic improvement to how you look and feel.
