In response to requests from friends received by Brit store owner Yvonne Carlson who wanted her to bring back unique gifts and treats from Britain it led her to open an online store offering products sourced from the UK and which would appeal to expats and Anglophiles living in the US.

"Just like a bazaar or department store around the world the range of choice in The British Bazaar is eclectic and sure to interest and entertain" says the store owner. "Over 80% of the products offered originate from the UK but many such as our travel journals are sourced from the USA because they are perfect for those heading off on their travels and, make perfect gifts for visiting friends and relatives."

Aimed at US and Canadian British expats the site is a little bit of home on the web but The British Bazaar appeals globally too. "For relatives and friends living outside of North America the website enables fabulous gifts to be sent directly to the recipient without the hassle of international postage" says Yvonne.

Choice on the site ranges from quirky to practical and shoppers can pick up anything from a pair of Union Jack Wellington boots, a Union Jack Frying Pan or an Irish Flag running vest to gifts for babies, mums and guys while indulging their fondness rummaging around in the online 'Car Boot' for pre-loved items such as favorite British magazines and books.

Whether the shopper is looking for a unique gift for someone else or a treat for themselves they have plenty to choose from at the British Bazaar.
