A new money saving website that compares prices on life insurance packages has announced customers can now get quotes from market leaders BUPA and Aviva when they enquire via QuoteBoffin.co.uk

QuoteBoffin.co.uk which launched early this month, is the latest price comparison site to hit the ether.

The price comparison industry itself has proved a recession defying success given its 30-50% growth in the past couple of years alone.

QuoteBoffin.co.uk believe their partnership with brokers who offer life insurance packages from market leaders will immediately stir up interest among consumers:

"Although a new company to the price comparison field, QuoteBoffin.co.uk want to offer consumers the very best products from the word go. To do so QuoteBoffin.co.uk will work with brokers that cover life insurance providers such as BUPA and Aviva. This means consumers are not only getting tried and tested life cover from long established companies but are also ensuring they get a highly competitive price at the same time."

Market leaders for life insurance in the UK and beyond, BUPA and Aviva offer consumers and their loved ones peace of mind and financial support at an understandably difficult time.

Although both providers offer a lump sum towards unpaid bills and other financial obligations, there are also added extras such as access to expert support through the BUPA HealthLine and a £15 Marks and Spencer voucher for Aviva customers.

QuoteBoffin.co.uk thinks consumers will not only be impressed with the price of life insurance but the range of packages available as well:

"A wide range of providers is important not only so consumers can compare prices but also so they get a level of cover that's right for them. As a company, we appreciate that one person's circumstances, preferences and budget will differ greatly from the next so QuoteBoffin.co.uk is celebrating diversity as well as customers getting a great deal on their life insurance."
