Bruntwood, the privately owned commercial property company, has announced that debt management company, Harrington Brooks and Trafford Housing Trust have both taken up office space at Point Sale in Greater Manchester, with each company taking 16,375 sq ft and 21,110 sq ft respectively. This now means 80% of office space available at the property has been pre-let, three months before refurbishments are due to complete.

Andrew Butterworth, Sales Director at Bruntwood said: "We are delighted to welcome these new customers. These deals truly reflect the high quality and cost effectiveness of the office space available and our ability to successfully accommodate business specific requirements."

Sale Point is currently undergoing an extensive refurbishment to create high specification offices with a new entrance and reception on Washway Road in Sale.

Matthew Cheetham, Chief Executive Officer at Harrington Brooks said: "We're impressed with the way the new works are shaping up. The new reception and entrance will provide an impressive welcome for our staff and visitors and we're looking forward to taking occupation at the building this summer."

With this 37,485 sq ft of offices secured, Bruntwood and retained agents King Sturge and WHR are now talking to other parties regarding much of the remaining 9,656 sq ft of office space.
